SCOPE OF THE JOURNAL

The Journal of Communication Disorders publishes original articles on problems related to the various disorders of communication broadly defined. The Journal's interests include the biological foundations of communicative processes related to disorders of communication, as well as psychopathological, psychodynamic, diagnostic, and therapeutic aspects of communication disorders. Experimental reports, case studies, theoretical papers, book reviews, and notes are also considered.

Outstanding Language and Fluency Titles From

LANGUAGE BEHAVIOR IN INFANCY AND EARLY CHILDHOOD

Rachel E. Stark, Ph.D., Associate Professor of Neurology, Johns Hopkins University, Director, Division of Hearing and Speech, John F. Kennedy Institute, Baltimore, Maryland, editor

Proceedings of a Pediatric Round Table, Santa Barbara, California, sponsored by the Johnson and Johnson Baby Products Company. Twenty-seven specialists in the field present broad, organized coverage of social development and communicative behavior in infancy, early development of the forms of language, and cognitive development and language behavior in early childhood.

1981 496 pages 0-444-00627-3 $34.95 (outside North America, Dfl. 90.00)

PHONOLOGICAL DISABILITY IN CHILDREN

David Ingram, University of British Columbia

A pioneer study that takes a linguistic approach to a major area of language disability—phonological disorders in children. Provides a synthesis of theory and applications and takes a systematic approach to the analysis of disordered personality.

1976 167 pages 0-444-19506-8 $15.95 (Distributed outside the United States by Edward Arnold Ltd., Publishers London, England)

AMER-IND GESTURAL CODE BASED ON UNIVERSAL AMERICAN INDIAN HAND TALK

Madge Skelly, Ph.D., St. Louis University of Medicine

Describes and illustrates a unique gestural communication system, demonstrating its potential as an alternative mode for the speechless and as a facilitator for development or restoration of speech.
